GREENFINCH PROJECT – DEVELOPMENT UPDATE

HIGHLIGHTS

- All environmental approvals received for Greenfinch (Edna May)
- Commencement of mining now likely to be earlier than anticipated

Ramelius Resources Limited (ASX: RMS) (“Ramelius”, “the Company”) is pleased to advise that final environmental approvals have been received for the Greenfinch open pit, adjacent to the Edna May operation in Western Australia (refer Figure 1).

The Clearing Permit for the Greenfinch open pit was granted on 3rd October 2019, and subsequent advertising period and offset proposal requirements have been satisfied. The Company has now also received final Federal environmental approval to proceed.

While production was not scheduled until FY2021, an earlier start date is currently being considered for inclusion in the updated Life-of-Mine plan due for publication late in the March 2020 Quarter.

Ramelius’ Managing Director, Mark Zeptner today said:

“After a protracted approval process we are delighted to now have clarity and confidence around the commencement of mining at Greenfinch. Although not a large orebody, its location immediately adjacent to the Edna May processing plant will deliver strong economic returns.”

In addition, these operations at Greenfinch will provide significant employment opportunities for the nearby Westonia community via mining personnel and service providers.”
